Cartoon Character Resume

Introduction: Your favorite cartoon characters have lost their jobs at the animation factory and need to hit the pavement for different positions.

Directions: You are to build a resume for one of the “Top 50 Cartoon Characters of All Time” (see table below) so that they can get a job in the real world.

Decide what type of job your character is seeking before you begin creating their resume. This can make it easier to come up with information. Also, feel free to embellish or be creative when it comes to your characters qualifications. Your cartoon character’s resume must include: Name, contact information, objective, education, work experience, skill and accomplishments, honors and awards, community involvement, and three references.
