

Caption Competition

Introduction: Some pictures are simply crying out to be adorned with speech bubbles, thought bubbles or silly titles. Students love to take part in them and the finished results can be a good way to decorate a tired area of wall space.

Materials: A variety of funny pictures, easily obtainable from the billions on the web.

Time Frame: 10-15 minutes

Directions:

1. Have students go out on the internet, use newspapers or magazines and search for images.
2. Have the students put the images on the bulletin board or wall.
3. Once all the photos or are on the board, put the students in pairs or groups and have them come up with the best captions for the photos.
