

CD Cover Design

Introduction: This activity is designed to help you get to know yourself and others. The mission is to create a CD cover using the following construction criteria and explain the cover to others. The cover design is left up to you—it may be drawings, clippings from magazines, actual photographs or computer generated.

Directions:

- Select a name for the artist or group that represents the REAL YOU.
- Select a title and design for the cover.
- Choose a producer—your most influential family member.
- Choose an agent—your most influential non-family member.
- List the six credits (individuals) who have helped you become who and what you are.
- List your five best characteristics.
- Select eight song titles - the song titles can be actual songs or invented titles.
 1. One that best represents who you are
 2. One that best represents your philosophy of life
 3. One that tells where you feel most comfortable and what makes you feel good
 4. One that tells what you do well and what you would like to accomplish
 5. One that represents your family
 6. One that represents your goals and dreams in life
 7. One that represents the type of friend you are
 8. One that represents something of your choosing

Presentation: Each student will present their CD cover to the class, explaining the choices he or she has made.

Debrief:

- What did you learn about yourself and other people in the class?
- Why is it important for a leader to contemplate these things and share them with others?
